

“119” is the number used in case of fire or emergency in Japan

At Yokote City Fire Department, interpretation service using three-way calling is available for foreigners who have difficulty communicating in Japanese when they call 119. To respond promptly, it is available for 24 hours/365 days in 20 languages : English, Chinese, Korean, Portuguese, Spanish, Thai, Vietnamese, Indonesian, Tagalog, Nepali, French, German, Italian, Russian, Malay, Myanmar, Khmer, Mongolian, Sinhala and Hindi.

※Emergency service for fire truck and ambulance including call charge is free in Japan.

What is three-way calling?

When you call 119 by the language other than Japanese, your call is transferred from Fire & Emergency Call Center to interpreter call center. The Information Center asks for an interpreter. While transferring the call, you need to wait for a while. However, please do not hang up the phone. Then, you can communicate in your mother language via an interpreter.

Fire & Emergency Call Center

Caller
(does not speak in Japanese)

Three-way calling is available with a caller and the Fire &
Emergency Call Center
via an interpreter.

Foreign language

Japanese

Interpreter call center

Points when you call “119”

Please answer the questions after you call “119”.

Q “Is it fire or emergency?”

- First, please answer whether it is fire or emergency.
(※The same number is used for both fire and emergency in Japan.)

Q “Please tell us the address.”

- Tell us the address an ambulance or a fire truck needs to go.
- In case you don't know the address, tell us something near you, stores, or the name of intersection.

Q “Please tell us the situation.”

- In case of emergency, tell us what happened to whom, if he or she is conscious, and breathing.
- In case of fire, tell us what is on fire. Building, car or other?

★Contact★

Yokote City Fire Department
Fire & Emergency Call Center

1-1-1, Jori, Yokote, Akita,
013-0060 JAPAN

Tel 0182-32-1112
Fax 0182-32-1146

